

Iranian Kurdistan Since 1979 Workshop

Wednesday 6 March 2024

09:15–09.30	Welcome
09:30–11.00	Session 1 – Kurdish identity &amp; gender Discussant: Marouf Cabi, LSE Middle East Centre
	The Kurdish national liberation movement in Iran, the ‘other’ of the international order of states Sahar Bagheri, Sorbonne Paris Nord University
	An analysis of the femicide phenomenon in Iranian society: Racism or feminism? Fatemeh Karimi, École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales
	Exploring identity crises and radicalisation in Laleh Khadivi’s A Good Country Zhila Gholami, Griffith University, Australia
	Songs and musical variations: Kurdish representation in post-1979 Iran Lorane Prevost, University of Oxford
11.00–11.30	Coffee Break
11.30–13.00	Session 2 – History writing and politics Discussant: Robert Lowe, LSE Middle East Centre
	Persia or Iran? Problems in modern Iranian historiography Marouf Cabi, LSE Middle East Centre
	Transnational origins of the Kurdish movement in Iran since the late 1990s Jahangir Mahmoudi, University of Kurdistan-Sanandaj, Iran
	The Muslim Peshmerga and the Iranian Revolutionary Guard Corps: How the Iranian Islamist regime won and lost its Kurdish allies Siarhei Bohdan, University of Regensburg
	The forgotten refugees: Rojhelati refugees in the Kurdistan Region of Iraq Allan Hassaniyan, University of Exeter
13.00–14.00	Lunch
14.00–15.30	Session 3 – Representation and resistance Discussant: Allan Hassaniyan, University of Exeter
	Walk or die: Cinematic patterns of body and land in Kurdish movies Hemen Heidari, University of Amsterdam
	A landscape of (im)mobility in a Kurdish border village Moslem Ghomashlouyan, University of Bern, Switzerland
	From armed struggle to associational life: Kurdish women’s intersectional activism in Rojhelat Azad Hajiagha, Jagiellonian University, Poland
	From de-tribalisation to re-tribalisation: Instrumentalisation of tribal ties among the Kurmanji-speaking Kurds in post-revolutionary Iran Mostafa Khalili, LSE Middle East Centre/University of Kyoto, Japan