

Congratulations on your offer!

Welcome from Professor Almudena Sevilla,
Programme Director

I am delighted to offer you a place on the BSc International Social and Public Policy with Politics in the Department of Social Policy! We look forward to welcoming you to the Class of 2024/25 and to the vibrant student community at LSE.

BSc International Social and Public Policy with Politics

Our programme brings together academic rigour and in-depth understanding.

- You'll understand how voters, political parties and politicians, civil servants, different governmental departments and agencies interact, whether proposing, modifying, blocking or implementing policies across the world.
- You'll discuss current and past social policies and the analytical principles underlying them. For example, levels of social security benefits and their eligibility conditions, the nature of private-public partnerships in health service provision, or the effectiveness of different schooling systems in reducing educational inequalities.

At LSE, you'll be joining an academically excellent student body from across the globe and from a range of backgrounds. The diverse experience and international perspectives you and your classmates bring will enhance your learning both inside and outside of the classroom.

Careers

As a future LSE graduate you have an exciting career ahead of you and one of the world's leading universities on your CV. The interdisciplinary nature of social policy means that you'll graduate equipped with a broad range of knowledge and skills that can be applied in many different settings.

Many of our graduates apply their academic training directly; working as policy specialists in international organisations, government, the public sector and NGOs, as well as following careers in a wide variety of other areas such as journalism, education, healthcare, and police and justice services.

Whichever path you wish to pursue, LSE Careers is there to provide you with comprehensive guidance both during and after your studies. You'll join a global alumni community of over 155,000 former students, and benefit from mentoring and networking events wherever you are in the world.

Next steps

- Accept and confirm your offer via UCAS Track if you haven't already done so.
- Read the Undergraduate Offer guide for information on visas, fees, accommodation, what to do before you arrive at LSE; as well as, general information about student life and London.

- Follow us on Twitter and Instagram to keep up to date on what's happening within the department
- Keep an eye for updates on LSE Welcome. We strongly encourage you to take advantage of the wide range of School-wide activities and events taking place throughout Welcome. Your compulsory programme Welcome Session will also take place during this week - finalised dates, times, and other details will be sent to you nearer the time.

Coming Up

- June 2024: To help you prepare for your arrival at LSE, you'll receive a message from your Programme Manager with more information about Welcome, your degree programme and the School.
- July 2024: We'll email with information about the student opportunities that are available to you as a student in the department.
- August 2024: We'll contact you again with important reminders about Welcome, Registration, course selection and School timetables.

Contacts

If you have any questions which aren't answered in the Undergraduate offer guide, please don't hesitate to get in touch with us.

Questions about your application or admissions: contact the Undergraduate admissions office.

Questions about your programme: contact your Programme Support Team, Craig Stewart, Clare Gorman, Jake Watkins and Hao Wu via socialpolicy.ug@lse.ac.uk.

The Department of Social Policy and LSE are lively and exciting places to be both academically and socially. We're sure you'll enjoy this highly challenging and rewarding programme and your time at LSE.

All of us in the department look forward to welcoming you later this year.

Best wishes,
Professor Almudena Sevilla
Programme Director

Information for offer holders

Frequently Asked Questions

Department of Social Policy

All Rights Reserved. © Copyright 2024.

London School of Economics and Political Science

Houghton Street
London WC2A 2AE
www.lse.ac.uk
+44 (0)20 7955 6613